The last few months have been really exciting for me! I played a recurring character on the new series Pairings, and I was thrilled to be interviewed by the International House of Geek in their Who's Who Geek Edition. You can read the full article at <http://ihogeek.com/2012/05/03/stephanie-thorpe/>. In another highlight, I'm proud to be seen as the face of Marvel's Scarlet Witch in their new Avengers Edition trading card series.

In other news, my production, ElfQuest: A Fan Imagining, appeared as an Official Selection at this year's Phoenix Comicon Film Festival, after winning Best Trailer at the IndiIntertube Awards in March, and the Specialty Short Award at BaltiCon.

As a long time fan of the original comic series, our continued success has been a real dream come true for me! You can check out more about the project, including updates at: elfquestfantrailer.com My series Shelf Life (www.shelflifeseries.com) just launched it's third season June 11th and we are very excited to have an upcoming panel at San Diego's Comic-Con--the Geek Mecca itself in July! Indeed this summer looks to be a busy one! I'll be speaking on 2 panels at Comic-Con and several at GeekGirlCon in August. The Shelf Life panel starts at 7pm Friday 7/13. I'm also honored to announce that I was asked to speak on "The Most Dangerous Women at Comic-Con" panel and it's an honor to sit next to so many women I admire. If you are at Comic-Con, check it out 7/12 at 5pm, Room 7AB! And I just finished a photo shoot for CupCake Quarterly that I can't wait to share more details about!
