This summer has been a busy one for me. In July I was thrilled to speak on 2 highly successful panels at SDCC 2012: "The Most Dangerous Women at Comic-Con" and the panel for my hit series, "Shelf Life". I was also priveledged to speak at this year's GeekGirlCon in Seattle in August. I spoke on 2 panels at the event: "Geek Girls in Popular Culture" and "Geek Girls Creating Their Own Films & Shows". It's always an honor to share the stage with so many women I admire, and I love that the stories we're all creating are contributing to the flourishing of all things geek.

In other news, my production, ElfQuest: A Fan Imagining, continues to garner critical acclaim with a recent win at the Prestige Film Award Festival and an appearance as an Official Selection at the HollyShorts Film Fest. I explored my dark side in the photo shoot for new vampire series "Vampire Serum" by Lan Bui and Sam Proof. The series is scheduled to begin production in September.

I also reprised my alter-ego The Scarlet Witch once again as Welovefine.com's Cosplayer of July. Hope you're doing well and I look forward to connecting again soon!
